

Marbach opens new location in Michigan City.

Michigan City, 17th of September 2019

The Heilbronn die-cutting tool manufacturer Marbach opened its new location in Michigan City, Indiana. The newly created factory in Michigan will complement Marbach America's current resources at the Marbach site in Charlotte, NC. At the Open House, numerous visitors from the local community and customers from the packaging industry all over the United States are able to convince themselves of the performance capabilities of the newly founded company.

Comprehensive product portfolio

Fernando Pires, Chief Operating Officer of Marbach America: "From now on, we will be manufacturing an extensive portfolio of die-cutting tools for the packaging industry in Michigan City. In addition to standard folding carton tools, we will manufacture high-tech tools such as the solidplate, the masterstrip-plate and the lightblanker system. In addition, tools for large-format corrugated flatbed diecutters will be produced in Michigan City".

Open house Oktoberfest

At the open house Marbach offers its visitors in Michigan City an exciting program in Oktoberfest atmosphere, with German food and drink. In addition to guided plant tours and presentations on the subject of "die-cutting technology for packaging", there is also the live production of Marbach tools to be seen.

Marbach creates jobs in Michigan

Pires: "We are very happy that we could start now with our new manufacturing site. In Michigan City, we have approx. 20 employees at the moment. The goal is to increase the number of employees to 50 in the next 5 years." Thus Marbach creates new and attractive jobs in Michigan City.
