

Thermoforming Technology.

Separate forming and punching tools

Separate forming and punching tools from Marbach are used all over the world. As an alternative to steel rule technology, traditionally female / male tools are also used. These are characterized by their robustness and easy maintenance. During production, the highest precision is the basis for a sharp cut and a long service life. Our machine types allow us to manufacture the tools in one setup; - This means that large tools for systems with a sheet width of more than 50 inches can also be manufactured in Marbach quality.
